Love and Kisses

I read in a magazine the other day, about the Arab kissing his camel.

It made me think that, perhaps, we were not kind and affectionate enough to our domestic animals.

If we would be more affectionate and kind to them, I believe they would be happier, and toil for us more diligently.

If we would take old Bossie on our knee -wrap our arms lovingly around her neck and plant a Gloria Swanson buss on her ruby lips, I think she would respond with a greater flow of the lacteal fluid.

At the end of the days' labor, when you turn old Pete and Kate into the lot, if you would tickle them under the chin, pat them on the neck, and kiss them goodnight and wish them pleasant dreams, they would be happier.

Present old Beck with a pair of new bloomers as a New Year's gift, and give old Jack a new collar and tie to show your appreciation of their services. Remember they are your servants, and all they get for years of toil and sweat is their board and clothes; so kindly add to these your love and affections

And while you are loving your animals, extend your affections to your fellow men and women, that your days may be long and happy in the land of the living.

This is the wish and prayer of

Yours truly,

A ILLIONS of people have cheered him; endless pages of IVI words have been said, sung and written in his praise but LINDBERGH—the modest, unassuming, lovable boy could not be spoiled by applause or acclaim.

LINDERMORI

Written by "The Lone Eagle" himself

With an introduction by

Ambassador Myron T. Herrick

But how HE felt through it all—his own true story—that is what no one knows but Lindbergh himself.

And that is what he tells in this thrilling story "WE" that recounts his early life, his adventures both in and out of the AIR MAIL SERVICE, his own conception of the flights from San Diego to New York and Long Island to Paris, the instruments he used to guide him, the pomp and pageantry of the receptions abroad and at home, and his own ideas as to the future of aviation.

Each was pinned to the board and each was sacrificed there to take away the sins of the poor peasant. In some way they understood that Jesus had died for them, but they had to have some material figure to illustrate the atonement. Mark was himself convinced that lesus was the Divine Son of God and he wrote his gospel to show us why he so believed. We have a great deal more testimony and a great many more facts before us than had Mark. When the United States was launched as an independent republic it was a great venture. Washington and Adams and Jefferson and Franklin and all those bold, brave patriots knew that the enterprise was doubtful. They knew also that God was watching their efforts and believ-ed that he would help.

Looking back over the years we see how well they builded and the constitution they framed is a much greater document to us than it was to them. It has stood the test of ime and has justified the faith of those patriots.

When Mark wrote his gospel, published perhaps a hundred years after the events recorded, Christianity was new. He believed in Christianity. He was convinced of

Jackson Brothers, local Dodge Brothers dealers held open house Wednesday evening from 6 to 10:30, displaying the features of the new product and entertaining the visitors with radio programs including the special program of the Dodge Brothers Corporation, headlining Will Rogers. Al Jolson, Paul. Whiteman and Hundreds of visitors viewed the second of the Dodge Brothers line of sixes, which made their first 1927, on display in the local show rooms. A standard sedan of the new Victory six was placed on the floor and lighted from every angle.

Another of the new sixes wa kept busy during the evening actually demonstrating the riding qualities and speed of the new product which made its first apearance in Corsicana.

All of the features of the new car were explained to the visitors R. J. and S. J. Jackson, and their staff of salesmen.

An Atwater Kent radio set with speakers in various parts of the building entertained the visitors through the courtesy of the City Tire and Bicycle Company.

Unique methods have been employed to obtain the low, long sweeping lines dictated by pres ent day idas of fashion and style. Instead of building bodies separate from the frame, as is standard practice, the Victory Six designers have invented a double-steel shell body which, in effect, is a unit with the frame, eliminating the cinventional sills and cross-

To Our Navarro County Customers:

POWER AND LIGHT

By ROVENA WRIGHT PHARES The first of this tale is of by-gone days Which our parents used to know-A story of times when the only light Was a lamp or a candle's glow; A story of times when the charcoal man Drove up and down the street And sold black stuff by the towsack full To burn for the sad iron's heat. Now these were the days of weary backs, Of eyes that grew dull and strained, Of blistered hands, long hours of work, And darkness on days that rained. But the latter part is a song of joy-A cong of the New Today-When power is not a labored heart Nor muscles which work and play-When a woman pushes a switch for light, Has an iron with electric heat, a And a vacuum cleaner to clean the rugs Which she used to sweep and beat. Now Electric Power is clean and cheap-It will serve one night and day, And it makes a home so easy to keep And a pleasant place to stay. It has brought us the gift of the radio, The cooling breeze of the fan. The curling iron, and electric range, And the pad for the warming pan, The handy toaster, and waffle iron, A cabinet with frozen air That makes ice cubes for cooling drinks And preserves the food that's there. At a motion this modern genie comes-Like the one which Aladdin called: Just press a button—the hidden wires Are your servants when once installed!
